The Australian Landfill Owners Association (ALOA) is an association for landfill owners who have a shared concern for the future sustainability of the Australian environment and for their businesses, and who want to actively participate in best practice waste management practices across Australia.

ALOA exists to ensure that landfill owners and operators are represented on key industry issues at a local, state and federal level.

Recent Advocacy includes:

- Landfill levies
- Methane emission targets
- ACCC review

- IPART review
- Future landfill demand
- PFAS
- Waste mass balances
- Landfill license conditions

Objectives

ALO A was incorporated in December 2008 and has grown to represent a significant portion of the landfill industry in Australia. Our primary objective is to provide a forum for landfill owners to share their concerns for the environment and the future sustainability of their enterprises and to provide a conduit between the industry and various levels of government.

We encourage and promote the use of best practice and professional conduct in the landfill industry and seek to foster public awareness of the essential role of the landfill industry and those operating within it.

Specifically ALO A seeks to:

- Influence proposed legislation and policy that may impact or affect the landfill industry in Australia.
- Protect, promote and advance the landfill industry in Australia.
- Provide information to governments, bodies, organisations and the public in relation to the industry.
- Educate stakeholders on the essential nature of landfill.

Our Members

ALO A's membership represents the landfill industry. Combined, members receive and manage a large portion of the total solid waste generated in Australia, employing 12,000+ staff.
